Introduction

Viamor /'viəmo:ɹ/ is a quick little language made with Vulgar Language Generator (www.vulgarlang.com) to showcase how the the PDF output looks.

Vulgar's PDF output automatically sorts the language Conalng to English and English to Conlang. It also automatically adds the first and last words of the page to the header – this will even update itself if the user adds more vocabulary the document.

The PDF is 100% customisable using Sharelatex.com.

Adjective order: Adjectives are positioned before the noun.

Adposition: prepositions

Ergativity

Viamor is an ergative-absolutive language. By default, ergativity is encoded on the noun with prefixes. However in some cases, ergativity is encoded on the determiner instead of the noun.

Masculine noun case prefixes

	Absolutive	Ergative
Singular	∅-	v(ê)-
Plural	s(ê)-	sv(ê)-

Feminine noun case prefixes

	Absolutive	Ergative
Singular	∅-	a-
Plural	s(a)-	sv(a)-

Neuter noun case prefixes

	Absolutive	Ergative
Singular	∅-	I-
Plural	s(I)-	sv(I)-

Indefinite article

Indefinite articles come before the noun phrase. In the case that an indefinite article is used with a noun, no prefixing occurs on the noun. Instead ergativity is encoded in the indefinite article.

The indefinite article is not used for non-specific countable nouns:

Non-specific = 'I am looking for a (any) girl in a red dress'

Specific = 'I am looking for a (particular) girl in a red dress'

In non-specific scenarios, no article is used the noun will be encoded for ergativity (where applicable).

Masculine indefinite articles

	Absolutive	Ergative
Singular	pe	pem
Plural	neg	sturd

Feminine indefinite articles

	Absolutive	Ergative
Singular	nep	neg
Plural	tal	tag

Neuter indefinite articles

	Absolutive	Ergative
Singular	ral	žu
Plural	rov	žuaj

Definiteness

Viamor uses the word for 'that' i as a marker of definiteness, or less commonly you can use the word for 'this' kesin. These come before the noun phrase and are the same in plural form. In general, definiteness is omitted in speech.

Personal pronouns

1st.pl	j(o)-	v(e)-
2nd.pl	d(ê)-	a-

Verb aspects

Viamor uses the word for 'already' lathur before main verb to indicate perfect aspect.

Viamor uses the particle la before main verb to indicate progressive aspect.

Negation

Viamor uses the prefix so- on the verb to indicate negation. Any tense affix comes between the root verb and the negative affix.
